Michael and Ricci
Doctrow

Ricci and Mike Doctrow have been active in the Harrisburg Jewish Community for as long as they both can remember; from day camp and itty bitty basketball, to attending Yeshiva and cheerleading. They are life-long members of Chisuk Emuna and the JCC. Ricci was co-chair of UJA, has been involved in Hadassah and National Council. Mike has served on the Board for Chisuk Emuna, The Jewish Home, and Jewish Family Service and is currently on the Jewish Community Foundation Board. Ricci and Mike are Co-Chairs for the 2015 Annual Campaign. After getting married, their involvement took on new meaning. They were active in the ELC and Yeshiva when all three of their girls attended. They got to participate again in day camp and all of the other wonderful activities available to those in our community. “We grew up in the building, and then our kids grew up in the building”

When asked about their service to the community, Rabbi Ron Muroff said “Ricci and Mike Doctrow honor the memories of their parents and other ancestors and set examples for their children and all of us through their deeds of kindness and acts of tzedakah, all done without any desire for recognition. May G-d continue to bless Ricci and Mike and their family in the spirit of this prayer of Rebbe Nachman: “O Life of the world; Grant them a full life, a life which may be considered long because it has been filled with right living. And considered rich because it has been filled with holy acts.”

The community has been important to their grandparents, parents, and now their children. “Remember yesterday, live for today, work for tomorrow.”

The Susquehanna Tzedakah Society (STS) was established as a giving society of the Jewish Community Foundation of Central Pennsylvania. Members of the Society have made substantial financial commitments to Jewish community agencies and congregations including planned giving, endowments and other gifts. They are sustaining the Jewish community now in central PA, globally, and in Israel, and securing its future.

We thank and applaud them for their personal commitments to provide significant financial resources to support our Jewish community.
